

Stadsbader on the attack at Kristianstad

Two weeks after his good results in the home race in Genk, Gilles Stadsbader is ready to come back to the wheel in Sweden for the 3rd round of the FIA Karting European Championship.

The Forza Racing driver will be at his first FIA Karting race at the Åsum Ring, where he completed many test sessions about a month ago, before the Genk race. Stadsbader appreciated the track, admitting to be impatient to race there.

Gilles Stadsbader, Forza Racing (Exprit/TM): «This weekend for me will be the first time in a race in Kristianstad. I did many test session some weeks ago and I have to admit that the track met my expectations. I hope to repeat the results of Genk, also to improve my position in the general standings.»

The event will start on Thursday with the Free Practices as always happens in the FIA Karting Events, and it will continue on Friday with Qualifying Practices. The heats are scheduled on Saturday and Sunday morning, with the Final in the afternoon.

© photo: FM Images