

Toni Naudé enters the FIA Girls on Track Rising Stars programme

Toni Kayla Naudé has been selected to be part of the Girls on Track - Rising Stars programme promoted by the FIA Women in Motorsport.

The Commission has selected the Swiss driver to join a field of 20 girls from the karting world. Their skills will be evaluated throughout 2020. The programme includes a two day shoot-out followed by two different karting and Formula 4 focused training camps. Successful drivers then attend a one week training camp at Ferrari Driver Academy.

The drivers will be coached in many different aspects including personal preparation and driving technique and also introduced to the sport's economic and media world. This course is aimed at preparing the participants for the final selection.

The best driver may be awarded a one-year contract to join the FDA development and career support programme for an FIA Formula 4 season in 2021.

Toni Kayla Naudé: “To receive this opportunity is an honour for me. It’s not just about being in line for a spot in the Ferrari Driver Academy, but more importantly to be able to showcase and further female talent in motorsport. I will do my best to be the Rising Star.”
